INTRODUCTION SCRIPT: GEORGE'S MARVELLOUS MEDICINE

Speak clearly, naturally, confidently and showing interest throughout.

The book I am reading from is George's Marvellous Medicine by Roald Dahl.

I have chosen this book as I really enjoyed reading it, because it is so funny. I also like it because George's Grandma is really mean to him and he gets his revenge in the end.

The main characters in the book are George and his Grandma. George is a trustworthy boy who is just trying to look after his Grandma, but his Grandma is always complaining and moaning and saying unkind things.

In the end, George gets fed up with her and makes a 'marvellous medicine' from all sorts of things he finds around the house. When he gives her the medicine, magical things happen to her – she grows very tall and then she shrinks and disappears completely.

The part I have chosen to read from is when Grandma really starts growing and shoots up through the ceiling of the living room, the bedroom and finally the attic at the top of the house.

I would most like to talk to George at the very end of the story. I would ask him about how he was feeling as he watched his Grandma disappear, and what he thought of his parents' reactions to what happened.

I hope you enjoy the reading.

INTRODUCTION SCRIPT: BLACK BEAUTY

The book I have chosen to read from is...err... (Look at book)...Black Beauty.

I have chosen it because I like it.

(Hesitate as if forgetting what to say next).

Erm...It's about a horse called Black Beauty. And about a bridge.

The characters are horses and owners. Some are nice and some are not.

Oh, yeah, I chose the bit about the bridge.

(Look down at floor).

That's it.
