

Style, Bias and Viewpoints

Article 1

You might want to annotate the article as you go.

Style – Which descriptors best suit the style of this article?

Informative	Persuasive	Sensationalist	Expository	Narrative
-------------	------------	----------------	------------	-----------

Style – Collect examples of language to support your decisions

Quote	Language Used	Effect

Bias – Work through and discuss the following questions:

- What do we know about the source? E.g. Who are they (do they have known biases?); when is the information being relayed; why are they writing?
- Is there a range of viewpoints or just one?
- What evidence is provided to support the claims (and what are the sources of these)?
- What are other media outlets saying about the same story?
- Who is the audience?
- Is there any language used which reveals bias?

Issues and Viewpoints

List 3 'issues' raised by the news piece

Based on these findings, come up with a list of discussion points or questions you could use to guide a group discussion.

Style, Bias and Viewpoints

Article 2

You might want to annotate the article as you go.

Style – Which descriptors best suit the style of this article?

Informative	Persuasive	Sensationalist	Expository	Narrative
-------------	------------	----------------	------------	-----------

Style – Collect examples of language to support your decisions

Quote	Language Used	Effect

Bias – Work through and discuss the following questions:

- What do we know about the source? E.g. Who are they (do they have known biases?); when is the information being relayed; why are they writing?
- Is there a range of viewpoints or just one?
- What evidence is provided to support the claims (and what are the sources of these)?
- What are other media outlets saying about the same story?
- Who is the audience?
- Is there any language used which reveals bias?

Issues and Viewpoints

List 3 'issues' raised by the news piece

Based on these findings, come up with a list of discussion points or questions you could use to guide a group discussion.

Style, Bias and Viewpoints

Now try with your own article

You might want to annotate the article
as you go.

Style – Which descriptors best suit the style of this article?

Informative	Persuasive	Sensationalist	Expository	Narrative
-------------	------------	----------------	------------	-----------

Style – Collect examples of language to support your decisions

Quote	Language Used	Effect

Bias – Work through and discuss the following questions:

- What do we know about the source? E.g. Who are they (do they have known biases?); when is the information being relayed; why are they writing?
- Is there a range of viewpoints or just one?
- What evidence is provided to support the claims (and what are the sources of these)?
- What are other media outlets saying about the same story?
- Who is the audience?
- Is there any language used which reveals bias?

Issues and Viewpoints

List 3 'issues' raised by the news piece

Based on these findings, come up with a list of discussion points or questions you could use to guide a group discussion.